Possibly incorporate sessions to facilitate networking opportunities, possibly longer lunch ?

4/14/2015 6:44 PM View respondent's answers

I believe this is an unfair assessment for two reasons: because I am not a producer and because I have heard most of this information at previous events (e.g. farmsmart, biomass agm). The scores would be higher if either of these facts were not true

4/2/2015 7:44 AM View respondent's answers

I ranked the bioplastics and biomass fuel low not for lack of interest, but does not pertain directly as a benefit to me.

4/1/2015 4:53 PM View respondent's answers

Great content which as always will help to further us all in our own operations. Once a contract is reached it will also help us know better where we need to focus individual attention. I found it very hard to understand the presenters with foreign accents. I was able to keep up but did hear that others shared that challenge especially from one of the last presenters

The presentations were of good quality for the most part but the number of speakers and sessions was overboard. Every part felt rushed to stay on time. Next time, please reduce the amount of speakers and capture just the content that is important to your current audience.

4/2/2015 7:50 AM View respondent's answers

The presentations were all well put together and kept on time which was nice. The panel sessions were a bit hectic with the number of speakers at the front, but gave it more of a casual feel. A little longer for the networking session - longer breaks would give more of opportunity to intere

Low on food by the end.
4/1/2015 5:06 PM View respondent's answers

Home run! The only complaint I have is that there was just barely enough lunch. As i understood it got down to the last few people kinda sharing what pickings were left. I know we have budgets and i loved the cheese without the wine, but we definitely have to make sure there is enough lunch (when we provide lunch). I know we had walk in/un registered people but that is always the case. I would rather the board pay for and ask the board/members to take home leftovers than have guests hungry. It worked out this time, just wouldnt want to loose a good contact or a contract over a sandwich!

Potential topic might include focussing on purpose grown biomass (grown for certain domestic and international markets). Providing real examples currently present in other countries.

Have the event in woodstock or stratford area. Cheaper admission fee for producers would benefit. Also if you are looking to appeal to certain markets having industry specific days would be have better reach with specific clients.

I think following the criteria of past events is a good working model. I do feel that we should possibly have some events in other areas of the province, along the lines of the day at Don Knots farm in Clinton. I think it is only fair to our board and advisors. They come from all areas and it is nice to see whats going on where they are. Maybe a day about miscanthis at Dave Smiths?
